Rain at last. I'm not the only one happy to see mud puddles. The pear tree is ecstatic with blossoms. The lettuce and onions are gulping down the raindrops and the planted seeds are just waking up. The chickens out on pasture are not so happy and are hanging out under the mobile coop but you can't please everyone.

The new chicks are huddled in the chicken barn with heat lamps. If you want to hold squirmy little balls of fluff, come on down. They grow up very fast. Check out the fresh cucumbers and other goodies at St. Norbert Farmers' market tomorrow. They're open for the summer. If you're signed up for our CSA you get a 25% discount at our booth. Have a great long weekend.
